

Support animal health research

Did you know that nearly half of all the households in Quebec have pets? That fact shows the privileged position pets enjoy in our families, and the essential role they play in our lives. Animals spell happiness and comfort for thousands of people who live alone, especially the elderly. And pets improve living conditions for people with disabilities, rescue those in danger, and promote good health through zootherapy.

Unfortunately, pets are just as prone to illness as their owners. Our feathered friends, dogs and cats, cold- and warm-blooded creatures can all suffer from diseases that affect their well-being. To improve the health of our faithful companions, it's essential to support research in a wide range of medical specialties.

The Pet Health Fund was set up to do just that. The Fund provides financial support for research that has a direct and positive impact on pets. The funds raised are put to excellent use exploring various medical conditions, perfecting diagnostic and surgical techniques, and developing new therapies.

Improving quality of life for animals

Your donation to the Fund will not only contribute to the advancement of science but will also improve quality of life for pets. Your donation is precious because it helps us to fund innovative research projects that benefit both pets and their owners.

The Fund supports research projects in many fields, including:
